Pharmacodynamics

Camphor

Camphor is a stimulant, rubefacient, antipruritic and feebly antiseptic. When in combination with other ingredients such as menthol, methyl salicylate, it becomes ideal for neuralgia and other painful areas.

Menthol

Menthol dilates the blood vessels causing a sensation of coldness, followed by an analgesic effect. Menthol also acts as a penetration enhancer, increasing the penetration of drugs when applied on the skin, to give a faster onset of action.

Directions: Clean and dry area of application. Peel off the protective film and apply plaster to the affected area once or twice a day. Apply plaster half an hour after bathing, remove plaster one hour before bathing.

Adverse Reactions: May cause allergic reaction on some individuals with hypersensitive skin. If severe irritation occurs, discontinue use immediately and consult a physician. Patient with known or suspected intolerance to rubefacient should exercise caution when using this preparation.

Storage: Keep the plaster out of reach of children. Store below 30°C.
